

The Legend of Hades Hall - Day Four

Viscount Maximilian's Study

You chose the correct key and have entered the study. In one corner there are specialised books, a table and chairs.

But on the other side, Maximilian has set up a laboratory. Test tubes, anatomy charts, notes and pipettes. In the bin, you notice a tray of broken tubes and a stained apron.

You look at these tubes a little closer and put the glass together to see the shape:

What happened to the viscount?

Under the table, you see a chewed hunk of meat. It is raw and clearly would have been the centrepiece for a huge meal. It is covered in maggots. Disgusting – but you need to find out how long it has been there for.

Entomology is the study of insects and other invertebrates. In forensics, this can be used to determine when the meat was left based on the stage the insects are at when removed.

The Legend of Hades Hall - Day Four

	Stage 1	When stage appears
	Eggs and Larva 1 The eggs are found in suitably clammy, warm areas.	Soon after meat is left - 2.5 days
	Larva 3 The grub grows, gaining bulk and actively feeds on the food available.	2.5 days
	Pre-Pupa - Late Stage Pupa The larva moves to a drier area, growing immobile and developing a puffy case.	8 - 24 days
	Adult The pupa case opens. Living for several weeks, the flies mate, lay eggs and the cycle starts again.	21 - 24 days

Viscount Maximilian has been supposedly missing for two weeks.

3. What stage would you expect the larvae to be at, if the viscount disappeared in that time?
